

Facilitator for the day:
Josie Setzler

Josie Setzler found herself drawn into peace activism and nonviolence training by the wars that grew out of 9/11. She formed two area peace groups that she continues to lead. She has also served local mental health and environmental efforts. Josie participates with Witness Against Torture in national actions to close Guantanamo and end torture. She is trained in nonviolence and conflict resolution through Creating a Culture of Peace and the Lombard Mennonite Peace Center. She also writes for Toledo Faith and Values, ToledoFAVS.com. Josie is a former chemistry professor and environmental scientist. She and her husband Denny have four grown children and are active in their local parish.

Nonviolent Action Training

FROM PACE E BENE:

In this workshop participants learn practical tools for taking public nonviolent action for peace and justice. The workshop includes: presentation and application of the dynamics of nonviolent action; process for clarifying action workshops and strategies; exploration of hopes and fears; and planning and role-playing nonviolent action using Pace e Bene's nonviolent action checklist.

About NonViolent Owensboro

Established in Nov. 2016

As a local chapter of Campaign Nonviolence

WORKING TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE IN OWENSBORO:

We are working to coordinate the efforts of all the justice organizations in town—so we can all be more efficient with our resources and more supportive of each other.

MISSION STATEMENT

We are Owensboro area citizens committed to practicing and promoting nonviolent living through education and community partnerships.
